Local Government Act (1888) Amendment.

MEMORANDUM.

Before the Act of 1888, justices exercised, without challenge, the power of promoting Bills in Parliament relating to their duties.

Under the Municipal Corporations Borough Funds Act corporations have the power to promote Bills. The London County Council has the same power, practically without limit. The Local Government Act, 1888, gives power to county councils to oppose Bills, but by section 15, proviso (B), it is enacted that "this "section shall not empower a county council to promote any Bill "in Parliament or to incur or charge any expense in relation "thereto."

The Bill merely proposes to give to county councils powers already possessed by county and other municipal boroughs and certain other local authorities.

And whereas the Parish of Saint George in the East is a union within the meaning of the above-recited section and the Guardians of the Poor of that Parish (herein-after referred to as "the Guardians") propose to borrow money which with their existing debt will make their total debt under the Poor Law Acts exceed the maximum mentioned in sub-section (2) of the said section and the Guardians have applied to the Local Government Board for a Provisional Order to extend the said maximum to double the amount authorised by the said sub-section (2):

Now therefore We the Local Government Board in pursuance of the powers given to Us by Section 2 of the Poor Law Act 1889 and by any other Statutes in that behalf do hereby order as follows:—

1. This Act may be cited as the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1895, and this Act and the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1889 (herein-after called the principal Act), the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1894, and the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1894, Amendment Act, 1895, shall, except as otherwise provided by this Act, be construed as one Act, and may be cited together as the Local Government (Scotland) Acts, 1889 to 1895.

3.—(1.) In addition to the powers conferred by section twenty-five of the principal Act upon a county council to alter and enlarge the lands and heritages transferred to them by the said section, a county council shall have full power, with the consent of the Secretary for Scotland, and subject to the provisions of the Local Government (Scotland) Acts with regard to capital expenditure, to reconstruct county buildings and to provide, erect, alter, enlarge, and maintain such additional county buildings as may from time to time be necessary, and the expression "county buildings" shall for the purposes of this section mean any buildings, whether together or in different places within the county, for the transaction of the business of the county council or of the quarter sessions or justices of the peace; and a county council may, with the consent of the Secretary for Scotland, alienate any county buildings.

A.D. 1895.

(2.) The expenses incurred by a county council—

(b) in reconstructing county buildings; and

(c) in providing or acquiring land for county buildings;

shall, subject to the provisions of the following sub-section, be defrayed out of the general purposes rate leviable within the county.

(3.) Where any expenses payable by a county council in respect of buildings are at the passing of this Act defrayed out of any assessment other than the general purposes rate, such or the like expenses in subsequent years payable in respect of the same buildings shall not by the operation of this section cease to be defrayed out of the same assessment as before; and where the expenses connected with the upholding, repairing, renting, furnishing, insuring, lighting, cleaning, and warming county buildings, and the taxes, rates, and assessments legally chargeable thereon, are at the passing of this Act defrayed out of the county general assessment in terms of the County General Assessment (Scotland) Act, 1868, the like expenses in case such county buildings are reconstructed may, after such reconstruction, be defrayed out of the county general assessment or out of the general purposes rate, or be apportioned between them, as the county council may determine.

(a.) For the cost of the reconstruction of county buildings, or the erection of additional county buildings, on the security of the general purposes rate; provided that the Secretary for Scotland may, if he thinks fit, after affording the county council an opportunity of making a representation, by order under his seal relieve any police burgh or burghs from any contribution, or a portion of any contribution, to the general purposes rate so far as leviable to defray such cost; and or partly within a burgh or police burgh, any ten parish electors within such district may make a requisition in writing to the district committee of the county council, or when a county is not divided into districts, to the county council, calling upon them to purchase or provide, for and within such district, such engines for extinguishing fire, and such water buckets, pipes, and other appurtenances for such engines, and such fire-escapes and other implements for safety or use in case of fire, and to purchase, keep, or hire such horses for drawing such engines, as they think fit, and to build, provide, or hire places for keeping such engines with their appurtenances, and to insert fire-plugs, and to employ a proper number of persons to act as firemen, and to appoint a firemaster, who may be a chief officer of police or a constable, and who shall be superintendent of the fire brigade, and to make such rules for their regulation as they think proper, and to pay to such firemaster and firemen such salaries and such rewards for their exertions in cases of fire as they think fit.

(2.) Upon such requisition being received, the district committee or county council, as the case may be, shall be bound to meet after twenty-one days clear notice, and shall consider the requisition, and resolve either to grant or refuse the prayer thereof, in whole or in part. Such resolution shall be final, and in the event of refusal it shall not be competent to make another requisition to the same effect until after the expiration of twelve months.

(3.) Any expenditure incurred in carrying out, within such special water supply district, the purposes of this section or any of them, so far as not recoverable from owners or occupiers of premises in which a fire has occurred, shall be paid out of the assessment leviable by the county council within such special water supply district in respect of the water supply, or, if the county council so decide, out of the public health rate leviable within the district in which such special water supply district is situated, or within the county, as the case may be.

(4.) The district committee or county council, as the case may be, may, subject to regulations to be from time to time made with the consent of the county council, appoint a sub-committee for the management and maintenance of the engines and their appurtenances, and such sub-committee shall in whole or in part consist of parish councillors of the parish or parishes in which the special water supply district is situated, whether members of the district committee or not.

(5.) The district committee or county council, as the case may be, shall be entitled to recover from the owner, or, if they think fit, from the occupier, of premises within the special water supply district in which any fire shall occur, such reasonable sum of money as they shall consider just, not exceeding in the whole fifteen pounds, or whatever less sum is equal to one half of the expenses attending such fire. A.D. 1895.

(6.) The said engines and their appurtenances may be used, and the firemen may be employed, beyond the boundaries of the special water supply district, for extinguishing fires in the neighbourhood of the said district; and the owner or, if the district committee or the county council, as the case may be, think fit, the occupier of the premises in which such fire shall have occurred, shall in such case defray the whole expense attending such fire.

(7.) In case of any difference between the district committee or county council, and any owner or occupier, the amount payable in either case as aforesaid shall be determined summarily by the sheriff, whose decision shall be final, and the amount so payable shall be a debt due by such owner or occupier to the district committee or the county council, as the case may be.

(8.) The firemaster shall make up and deliver to the district committee or the county council, as the case may be, a statement of the whole expense attending each fire, which shall include the wages payable to the firemen and other persons employed at it, the rewards, if any, which he recommends to be given to them, the outlay incurred in taking them and the engines to the place where such fire occurred, and in obtaining a supply of water, and other the like expenses; and such statement, in so far as approved of or as altered by the district committee or the county council, as the case may be, shall be primâ facie evidence of the amount of expenses attending such fire.
